
Puppy Health

Posted by Duncan - 2007/08/01 20:49

Hello Everyone,

I have some bad news to report. My breeder has informed me. That the males in the litter set for me. Have a slight heart mur mur. They will not make good work projects.

I was given another breeding to to pick from. Due in September. This time I will wait. To pick up a puppy, before I post any pics.

I would like to hear any feedback. Is heart Mur Murs something common in Rotti's?

Also, any bad experiences with Thunder Valley Rottweilers, Joan Foote?

I was a little disappointed. That she told me, right before pick up. 7 weeks in. Is this normal time to check the heart? Or sooner.

Also, I was'nt offer a refund, and now I have a third pick male. In stead of first pick. Which was the reason, I sent an early deposit in April. I will say, on paper. This is a better breeding. I think.... Can I still trust this breeder. What should I do?

Duncan:(:(

=====